

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
Chandra Irvin

MDIV, M.Ed.

Coach, Facilitator, Minister for Peace

Chandra Irvin is the president and founder of Irvin, Goforth & Irvin LLC, a consulting firm committed to advancing peace, purpose and performance in the lives of individuals and organizations. She is a certified coach, facilitator, and minister for peace with expertise in cross-cultural relations and conflict resolution; and a certified master consultant on Polarity Thinking, a breakthrough strategy which combines “either/or” and “both/and” thinking to supplement traditional methods of creative planning and problem solving. Employing these skills, Chandra has helped individuals, leaders and organizations in the U.S. and abroad to: simplify complexity; overcome chronic difficulties; resolve conflicts; and build meaningful relations across diverse groups.

Irvin holds a Master of Divinity degree from Louisville Theological Seminary, a M.Ed. degree with a cognate in counseling from the University of South Carolina, a B.A. degree from Winthrop University, and completed post graduate studies in counseling at the University of North Texas. She is a Fielding Lewis Walker fellow and a Howard Thurman scholar.

Chandra holds coaching certification from the International Coach Federation (ICF). She is a faculty member of Polarity Partnerships’ two-year Mastery Institute and a frequent presenter on Polarity Thinking. She is the co-author of Do You See What I See? A Diversity Tale for Retaining People of Color (John Wiley & Sons), and author of Finding PEACE in Life, Work and Love Listening to the Voice Within (Wheatmark Books).

Chandra and her husband Nat live in Louisville, KY. They have three adult children and enjoy family, travel, sports, gardening, and occasionally kayaking.
