

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Laura Hlavacek Rabideau

Driven by the belief that successful companies are filled with successful people, Laura Hlavacek Rabideau prizes the Human Resources profession as one defined by helping people thrive.

Spanning her career as Human Capital Leader for a Fortune 100 healthcare company, Director of Human Resources and Diversity at an AMLAW 200 law firm, Chair of a national professional association's Committee on Diversity and Inclusion, and Board Member for arts and educational not-for-profit organizations, Laura embraces the challenge of creating spaces where all voices are heard and all talents valued.

Laura fostered her creativity and insight amidst obtaining a double degree in music and psychology during her undergraduate years at Northwestern University and her business acumen while earning her MBA at the Kellogg Graduate School of Management. A Chicago native, Laura has traded in the bustle of the Loop to rescue her wonderful husband in keeping up with three fantastic teenagers in Louisville, Kentucky.